

WILD AT HEART

Mustangs have thrived for thousands of generations. Now they are under attack, but courageous young people are trying to stop the round-ups and senseless killings by standing up to government and big business to save these American icons. With eye-witness accounts, cutting-edge science, and dramatic photographs, Terri Farley and Melissa Farlow invite readers into the world of mustangs in all its beauty, and profile the young people leading the charge to keep horses wild and free.

(Includes notes and sources, index, and glossary)

"Fast-paced and factual, Wild at Heart, weaves history, evolution, behavior, and first person accounts of North America's native wild horses into a unique and highly entertaining book." - Ginger Kathrens, Emmy Award-winning producer, cinematographer, author of natural history books and articles and biographer of the wild stallion Cloud

Melissa Farlow, is a freelance photojournalist whose work is published from 25 assignments and projects for National Geographic including a story about wild horses. A Pulitzer Prize winner, Farlow is known for her honest and compassionate images that appear in books and magazines from travels to 35 different countries.

A faculty member for the Missouri Photo Workshop, Farlow consults for the photo-society and is a frequent lecturer in professional and educational venues such as Germany's Lumix Festival, Annenberg Space for Photography and National Geographic Storytelling Seminars. An Indiana University Distinguished Alumni, she was recently inducted into the Indiana Journalism Hall of Fame.

Email: Mkfarlow@aol.com

"Gorgeously written, richly photographed and passionately argued, WILD AT HEART will ignite the heart of every horse lover. Thank you, Terri Farley and Melissa Farlow, for bringing us the truth about America's wild mustangs and burros."

- Sy Montgomery naturalist - author honored by American Library Association and SPCA

"Anyone who cares about wild horses should read this book. So should anyone who cares about how science is being abused to justify flawed management policies masquerading as 'responsible conservation'."

- Dr. Ross MacPhee, Curator of Mammalogy/Vertebrate Zoology, American Museum of Natural History

Terri Farley, author, works with young people to help them make their voices heard and is an advocate for the West's wild horses. Farley authored the best-selling Phantom Stallion middle-grade series (HarperCollins) and Seven Tears Into The Sea (Simon & Schuster), nominated as a YALSA best book.

A teacher of 8th grade - junior college English, she's been department chair at an at-risk high school. She's a member of NCTE, ILA, TLA and SCBWI. She's been a presenter in classrooms and at conferences across the U.S. and Canada. Her fact-based fiction was honored by the Nevada Writers Hall of Fame.

Email: AuthoringChange@aol.com